

Former NBA D-League and College Coach
Jeff Eakins
Presents
International Basketball Academy

A Year-Round Basketball Fundamentals Academy!

Learn how to play from coaches who have played and worked with NBA and College players!

This will be the most detailed fundamentals academy your player has ever attended!

Players can start developing as a 4th grader and continue year-round all the way to college!

Boys and Girls
4th —12th Grade

Classes have already started and many players of all ages are getting ahead of the competition! Register now!

Parents!!! Give your athlete the opportunity to learn how to play from the pros!

Ex-NBA professional, college coaches and players have teamed up with the International Basketball Academy to start teaching the fundamentals of basketball to kids right here in the Frederick area! Players from elementary school to the NBA have utilized Coach Jeff's detailed shot analysis and coaching technique in order to improve their shot. Not only will Coach Jeff show your player how to shoot correctly but he will teach them how to continue to fix their shot

Get the attention of High School and College Coaches

IBA has the ability to keep a player profile of each individual tracking their progress and updating personal stats. High school and college coaches will have access to these profiles in order to see those players who will be the future of their programs! Don't be an "unknown" at the team tryouts!

For More Info or to register online go to www.shotdoctor.org
Or email coachjeff@shotdoctor.org

Learn the detailed fundamentals of:

Spot-up jumpshot	Guard/Wing Play
Create own shot	Offense Philosophy
Shoot off the dribble	Defense Philosophy
Shoot off the screen	Game situations
Finishing to the hoop	Ball Handling
Post Play	Passing/Rebounding

Complete game knowledge and play instruction!!!

"Coaches are always telling players how they need to improve, but they rarely give them correct principles as well as reasons why they need to improve. If a player doesn't understand the why, then they will continue with their bad habits. It is my belief that when players understand what they are doing wrong and why it is incorrect, they will then start to implement the correct principles that they are taught. They will then also be able to feel when they are shooting correctly or incorrectly. This self-analysis is the way that a player can continue improving on their own when I am not around. — Coach Jeff Eakins

Read what others throughout the country are saying about Coach Jeff and his instruction:
"My son has attended numerous basketball camps, and has been personally instructed by several coaches and players, including a professional basketball player. Jeff Eakins' breakdown of the individual components of each basketball fundamental skill, his clarity of instruction, his warm, encouraging personality, and his commitment to proper court behavior benefitted my son more than any other instruction he has received." Gary Spackman, Boise, ID

I have to tell you...My daughter grabbed a rebound in the lane. The opposing center threw her hands straight up and stood in front of her. She put up a looping shot (over the volleyball pole!) that swished. The crowd went nuts! I just want to let you know your drill perfectly prepared her for that moment. Nice job! - Paul, Urbana, MD

Having grown up in Urbana and now having 5 kids go through various basketball programs, I have never seen basketball fundamentals instruction like this before. This is at a whole new level! This is exactly what our kids need in this area!
George Probeyahn, Monrovia, MD

"My coaches were always telling me that I needed to work on my shot but they could never tell me what I needed to do to improve. Within five minutes, Coach Jeff analyzed what I was doing wrong but also explained it in a way that made sense! By the end of our first hour, I knew what my bad habits were and I knew what I needed to do to fix my shot. Coach Jeff is a blessing to the game!"
Lavar—Frederick Comm. College, MD

"By far the best training for the money!" - Keith Edmunson (Former San Antonio Spurs Player)
"Great development by Professionals, no better opportunity!" - Darrall Imhoff (Former L.A. Lakers/Portland Trailblazers)